

I am writing to express my sincere interest in the management consulting role at Ramboll. The opportunity to gain experience and work in a team of talented people, is one I know I would enjoy, and both gain a great deal and give plenty too.

I was first attracted to Ramboll as an employer when I read you were ranked within the Top 10 consultants in the UK. Ramboll's commitment to sustainable, cutting-edge solutions that solve some of societies greatest challenges aligns perfectly with my aspirations for a meaningful career.

As a recent graduate from the University of Bristol, I earned a First-Class Honours degree in Economics, providing me with a robust foundation in economic principles, econometrics, environmental models, and data science. During my time at university, I developed my leadership skills as president of TUBES Rugby team, where I organised a tour, pitches and kit orders, as well as maintaining a strong rapport with other clubs. I am now actively improving my technical abilities by pursuing IBM's Full Stack Developer Professional Certificate, allowing me to craft a user-friendly adventure platform. This project, showcasing my commitment to continuous learning, empowers local guides and makes adventure more accessible. This experience has sharpened my entrepreneurial mindset, aligning well with the ethos of Ramboll.

My internship at Argus Media was a pivotal experience that ignited my keen interest in consulting. Despite having limited prior experience, I quickly adapted to the dynamic environment, actively contributing to market research and data analysis for a project related to biofuels. The focus was on collaboration internally and with our client to create the best personalised solution, both of which I understand you are looking for.

I also have a passion for problem-solving, highlighted through various pursuits outside of academia, including rock climbing, mountaineering, MMA, and chess. Engaging in enduring challenges, such as the Devizes to Westminster Kayaking Race and month-long mountaineering expeditions, has honed my ability to adapt and maintain morale in adverse situations. My love for the outdoors perfectly aligns with Ramboll's commitment to carbon reductions and their dedication to fostering societies where both nature and humans can thrive. Their recent partnership with WWF-India demonstrates a commitment to conservation and community support. The fact that Ramboll employees are actively volunteering their specialized skills through in-kind hours reflects the kind of individuals working at the company. This aligns with my aspirations, and I am enthusiastic about the prospect of contributing to such meaningful initiatives alongside like-minded colleagues.

Thank you for your time and I look forward to hearing from you.

Warm regards,
Max
